Story of House Designed Solely For Four Boys

Each Son of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Geraghty Has Individual Bunk, Closet, Bookshelf and Desk in Ship-Type Room.

A 27-foot ship-type bunk room with all the trimmings, planned for play and sleeping quarters for four sons, and a specially designed breakfast bar, are features of a house just completed for Mr. and Mrs. Geraghty on an acre tract, off Forder road and south of Lemay Ferry road.

Of modified ranch type design with early American detail, the house has been planned with a twofold purpose—accommodations for four growing boys and a daughter and for easy overall maintenance.

The entire second floor area, 12 by 27 feet, has been given over to the boys, Tom, Terry, Tim and Ty Geraghty. There are two full-sized lower bunks on each side of the room with overhead individual port hole windows. Each boy has his own desk in a recessed nook and his own closet, bookshelf and under-bunk cupboard. Adjoining this room is a large bath and shower room with all plumbing fixtures at practical heights for children but still serviceable for adults. Walls and ceiling are paneled with knotty pine. Fish net curtains, nautical fixtures and hardware and an ornate compass design in the linoleum-covered

A framework that stays rigid and strong through the years must be built with dry (seasoned) lumber. Wet (unseasoned) lumber cannot be used because it always shrinks, causing plaster cracks, uneven floors, open joints and loosened framework that vibrates every time the wind blows. floor add to the atmosphere.

Downstairs, entry is into a reception hall, to the right of which is a large living room with its hand-adzed beamed ceilings and paneled wood walls. An interesting treatment is the horizontal paneling over the stone fireplace mantel.

To the left of the hall is the daughter's room, guest room, master bedroom, bathroom, den, kitchen and breakfast room.

A suggestion of separation between breakfast room and kitchen is emphasized by a complete breakfast bar which extends from one wall. On one side there are stools and on the other, an area for serving.

A large screened porch opens off the den and the breakfast room and serves as an ornamental front for a two-car garage connected by a service area with the kitchen. Provisions have been made for an additional room and bath over the garage.

Exterior construction is of white silica brick topped by a contrasting roof of deep blue asphalt shingles.

Joseph Stecher was the architect and builder.

rative transite and on the lobby floor with marble. Elevator cabs are to be of modernistic design with indirect fluorescent lighting. Without interrupting service, the installation will be completed in about four months.

New rest rooms, plumbing and a Cutler mail chute also will be installed. Plans for a basement parking area are understood to be under consideration for submission to the City Building Commission before long.

The Wainwright Building, designed by Adler & Sullivan of Chicago, and Charles K. Ramsey of St. Louis, architects, was finished in 1891. Architects generally agree that the lines which characterize the best of modern skyscrapers were first developed in it.

John McAndrew, curator of architecture at the Museum of Modern Art in New York, has termed the structure a masterpiece and said that it had not been surpassed since its erection.

Arthur A. Schneider is manager of the building, which is owned by the Wainwright Real Estate Co.

The W. J. Knight Co., engineer and the John B. Gutman Construction Co. are handling the modernization.

WASHINGTON AVE. LOCATION LEASED BY FINANCE COMPANY

As soon as extensive alterations have been completed and modern office equipment installed, the company will open another small loan and finance office.

This will be the fifth unit of a chain which the corporation operates in Missouri. At present, St. Louis branches are at Grand and Florissant, Grand and Page and Vandeventer at Washington.

Samuel Morgan is president of the company, R. J. Timpte, vice-president and general manager; Ralph Stone, supervisor. Stone will have his offices at the new location.

The lessor was represented by James M. Franciscus Jr., agent for the Humboldt Building, with Cornet & Zeibig, Inc., acting for the lessee.

OLD E. G. LEWIS RESIDENCE TO BE SOLD UNDER HAMMER
